PROPOSALS

For Publishing, by Subscription,

THE COMPLETE WORKS OF

SIR WALTER SCOTT:

With a Biography: being the first American (and only) edition which contains the Author's last additions and illustrations, arranged upon their respective pages.

A COMPLETE and uniform edition of the various productions of the great 'Minstrel of the North,' is a desideratum with the American public. No library is complete without them, and no edition extant is sufficiently compact for such a repository; while the endless number of editions, without any uniformity in size, heretofore published, besides being exceedingly cumbrous, are far too voluminous and expensive to be within the reach of the great majority of readers. The undersigned therefore announce, that they have now in press, and will issue, an edition of the Works of Sir Walter Scott, which will embrace all his Poems, Novels, Histories, Biographies, and Fugitive Compositions, as well as the Biography and Private Correspondence, now in the course of publication in England, under the superintendence of Mr. Lockhart.

1st. In Parts: each Part embracing as much matter as is contained in two volumes of the present editions of the Waverley Novels, which will be put at the unprecedented low price of THIRTY SEVEN AND A HALF CENTS.

2d. Two parts will appear each month; but should the publishers find the work to meet the patronage they anticipate, FOUR PARTS will be issued monthly.

3d. The whole will be completed in seven volumes, or forty eight parts.

The paper on which the above is now printing, has been made expressly for the purpose; the present parts may, therefore, be considered a fair specimen, in every respect, of the whole work; but, should dissatisfaction arise with any subscriber, owing to an inferior article being offered, he may discontinue at any time, and have the amount paid returned.

Note.—The publication of the first volume is deferred until the receipt of the Biography, Private Correspondence, and the New Edition of the Author's Poetical Works, with 'contemporary criticism—various readings—and correspondence with some of the most eminent persons of the time when the Poems first appeared,' now in the course of publication in England.

Volume 1 will be ornamented with an excellent Portrait of Sir Walter Scott.

JOB PRINTING

EXECUTED, with neatness and despatch, at the Office of the PITTSBURGH GAZETTE. April 26

DAILY PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON, SEPTEMBER 4.

THE ERIE OBSERVER.—We do not receive this paper, but if we may judge of its tone and character from some extracts which we noticed in the Statesman, this morning, we would say that its interference in relation to our canal improvements is likely to do more harm than good. We would also suggest that, if that paper would leave this subject entirely to the superior judgment and courtesy of its neighbor, the Gazette, the cause which they both advocate would be better managed.

☞THE CONVENTION, AT GREENSBORO, meets on Wednesday, the 25th instant, and not on the 23d, as was understood.

☞THE MAIL.—Again we have no mail from Philadelphia, or any other place east of it.—Late arrivals may have occurred, important news may have been received, but we are none the wiser for it.

IMPROVEMENTS.—The communication, in our paper to day, in relation to the improvements in Ohio, merits attention. The New Yorkers manifest a praiseworthy enterprize, and public spirit, in their efforts to secure to themselves a large portion of the western trade; and their efforts have, in some measure, been crowned with success.—This partial success, while it proves to Pennsylvanians the necessity of vigorous counteracting efforts, should not produce any despondency. We have manifest advantages in any competition for the immense business of this great West, and we have nothing to dread, except our own want of energy and public spirit. Nature has given us such decided advantages, in the earlier and longer continued navigableness of our canals, and in the opening of Lake Erie, at Erie and Cleveland, sooner in the spring, and in its remaining open longer in the fall, than at Buffalo, that this great trade is secured to us, if we are true to ourselves.

We have encouraging assurances that the rail road over the mountains will be fit for use early in the ensuing spring; and, if we are not disappointed in this expectation, hundreds and thousands of tons of produce and merchandise may pass between Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, before the citizens of Buffalo will have filled their ice houses.

To our present and advancing improvements, only add a proper connection with the Ohio canal, and we believe that New York may bid a long and final adieu to the whole trade of the country through which that canal passes.

The suggestion of our correspondent, that the State should guarantee, to the Ohio and Pennsylvania Canal Company, five per cent. interest is, perhaps, a good one; and, no person who looks at the map of the country, and at the immense resources of the adjacent country, can doubt that this guarantee will be merely nominal.—Indeed we have no doubt that the additional transportation, brought to our canal by this proposed improvement, would increase the tolls to an amount vastly exceeding this five per cent.

Orders have already been received, it is stated, for 136,000 copies of the Temperance Almanac.

For the Gazette.

MR. EDITOR—An appropriation of $150,000 was made during the session of Congress before the last, for the improvement of the navigation of the Ohio, from Pittsburgh to the Mississippi and Missouri rivers; and the sum of $50,000, I believe, was granted, at the last session of Congress, to be expended in improving the navigation of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. Can you inform your readers, if any part of this money has been laid out on the Ohio river, above Louisville? This season has been very favorable for efficient labor on the bed of our river. We find that great exertions are making, to divert the trade from Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, and we ought, certainly, to avail ourselves of all the means in our power to compete, fairly, and as we have no doubt, successfully.

New York has aided and encouraged Ohio to make her Grand Canal, from Cleveland to Portsmouth—Ohio has also a Canal, which has been in operation for some years, from Cincinnati to Dayton, a distance of upwards of sixty miles. That state has lately granted a very advantageous charter, to a company, with a capital of a million of dollars, to connect Dayton with Lake Erie, by a Rail Road. The engineers have examined the rout, and have reported very favorably of it. A part, sufficient to secure the charter, has been subscribed to the stock, and commissioners have gone to Buffalo, Albany, and New York, to open books for the subscription of the balance of the stock. They have had such assurances from those places, that they have entire confidence that the whole of the stock required, will be taken immediately. It is fully expected, that, on the completion of the Mad River and Lake Erie Rail Road, merchandise can be transported from New York to Cincinnati, within ten days, and at a cost not exceeding $1 25 per hundred. If so, it behooves Pennsylvania, and particularly Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, to bestir themselves. Let us have a connection, by canal, from New Castle to Akron, as early as possible. Let the next legislature of our state guarantee, say 5 per cent., for twenty years, to the subscribers to the necessary stock. The guarantee would be merely nominal, as the canal would certainly produce more than that interest on the amount of stock required. And let us use our best efforts to have the navigation of the Ohio river so improved, as to be passable for steam boats of one hundred tons at all times, when not obstructed by ice. If these two things are done, Pennsylvania, and pre-eminently, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, will enjoy a rich harvest; but if they are neglected for a few years, New York has laid her plans, and will secure all the trade west of the Muskingum.

PENN.

For the Gazette.

MR. ADAMS AND MR. R. SMITH.

In the recent correspondence between these gentlemen, the former would really appear to claim a slighter and less direct warrant, for the remark imputed to him, than well known facts might afford. The language of Mr. Smith's letter to Erskine, accepting the atonement proffered for the attack on the Chesapeake, is this: "But I have it in express charge from the President to state, that while he forbears to insist on a further punishment of the offending officer, he is not the less sensible of the justice and utility of such an example, nor the less persuaded that it would best comport with what is due from his Britannic Majesty to his own honor." That the old King fired at this is not a mere matter of inference or private anecdote. Canning, in his Despatch to Erskine, of 22d May, 1809, disavowing the arrangement, dwells on "the admission by you, and so far, as appears without remonstrance or observation, of a Note containing expressions offensive to his Majesty's dignity, such as no Minister of his Majesty ought to have submitted to receive and to transmit to his government;" and, at the close of the Despatch, he says, "It remains for me to notice the expressions so full of disrespect to his Majesty, with which Mr. Smith's Note concludes, and I am to signify to you the displeasure which his Majesty feels that any Minister of his Majesty should have shewn himself so far insensible of what is due to the dignity of his Sovereign, as to have been contented to receive and transmit, to be laid before his Majesty, a Note in which such expressions were contained." The haughty and jealous spirit which the supposed indignity had awakened, is curiously visible in the stiff, and finally insolent, bearing of Jackson, the successor of Erskine. Mr. Smith, in a Note to Jackson, of 9th Oct. 1809, puts into writing, for the sake of greater distinctness, the information which he gathered in conversation with the new Envoy, and which the President has received "with no less surprise than regret."

"That, in the case of the Chesapeake, your instructions only authorize you (without assigning any reason whatever why the reasonable terms of satisfaction, tendered and accepted, have not been carried into effect) to communicate to this government a Note tendering satisfaction, with an understanding that such Note should not be signed and delivered by you, until you should have previously seen and approved the proposed answer of this Government." Jackson, in his reply, says—"I believe that I had observed to you, in the words of my instructions, that, if his Majesty were capable of being actuated by any desire to retract an offer of reparation, which he had once made, his Majesty might be well warranted in so doing, both by the form in which his accredited Minister had tendered that reparation, and by the manner in which that tender had been received. I believe that I elucidated this observation by a reference to the particular expressions which made the terms of satisfaction appear to be exceptionable even to the American Government, at the very moment when they were accepted; and which, at all events, put it totally out of His Majesty's power to ratify and confirm any act in which such expressions were contained." Mr. Smith, in a real or affected puzzle, expresses regret that the Envoy had not "elucidated the observation, by a reference to the particular expressions which, at all events, put it totally out of his Majesty's power to confirm, &c.;" and thus the matter runs on, until Jackson's just and proper dismissal, by our government, for his pertinacity in reiterating an offensive assertion.—It must, of course, ever be mere matter of speculation, how far this one sore point may have spread inflammation over the whole of the negotiation; but any one, reading over the official correspondence in a reflective mood, would be very apt to draw the conclusion at which Mr. Adams seems to have arrived, from other data.

WILD SPORTS OF THE WEST OF IRELAND.—The following selections, from this work, will be found interesting; and, no doubt, many of our readers will think them pleasing substitutes for foreign or domestic news.

"Several years ago, when the south of Ireland was, as it has ever been within my memory, in a disturbed state, a gentleman, advanced in years, lived in a retired country house. He was a bachelor, and, whether trusting to his supposed popularity, or imagining that the general alarm among the gentry was groundless, he continued in his lonely mansion, long after his neighbors had quitted theirs for a safer residence in town. He had been indisposed for several days, and, on the night he was attacked, had taken supper in his bed room, which was on the ground floor, and inside a parlor, with which it communicated. The servants went to bed; the house was shut up for the night; and the supper tray, with its appurtenances, by a providential oversight, were forgotten in the old man's chamber.

"Some hours after he had retired to bed, he was alarmed at hearing a window lifted in the outer apartment; his chamber door was ajar; and the moon shone brilliantly through the open casement, rendering objects in the parlor distinct and perceptible to any person in the inner room. Presently a man leaped through the window, and three others followed him in quick succession.—The old gentleman sprang from his bed; but, unfortunately, there were no arms in the apartment; recollecting, however, the forgotten supper tray, he provided himself with a case knife, and resolutely took his stand behind the door. He had one advantage over the murderers; they were in full moonlight, and he shrouded in impenetrable darkness.

"A momentary hesitation took place among the party, who seemed undecided as to which of them should first enter the dark room; for, acquainted with the localities of the house, they knew well that there the devoted victim slept. At last, one of the villains cautiously approached, stood for a moment in the doorway, hesitated, advanced a step—not a whisper was heard, a breathless silence reigned around; and the apartment before him was dark as the grave itself.—'Go on, blast ye! What the devil are ye afeerd of?' said the rough voice of an associate behind him; he took a second step, and the old man's knife was buried in his heart! No second thrust was requisite, for, with a deep groan, the robber sunk upon the floor.

"The obscurity of the chamber, the sudden destruction caused by that deadly thrust, prevented the ruffians in the outer room from knowing the fate of their companion. A second presented himself—crossed the threshold, stumbled against his dead associate, and received the old man's knife in his bosom. The wound, though mortal, was not so fatal as the other, and the ruffian had strength to ejaculate that he was a 'dead man!'

"Instantly, several shots were fired, but the old gentleman's position sheltered him from the bullets. A third assassin advanced, leveled a long fowling piece through the door way, and actually rested the barrel against the old man's body. The direction, however, was a slanting one, and with admirable self possession, he remained steady until the murderer drew the trigger, and the ball passed him without injury; but the flash from the gun unfortunately disclosed the place of his ambush. Then commenced a desperate struggle, the robber, a powerful and athletic ruffian, closed and seized his victim around the body—there was no equality between the combatants with regard to strength; and although the old man struck often and furiously with his knife, the blows were ineffectual, and he was thrown heavily on the floor with the murderer above him. Even then, at that awful moment, his presence of mind saved this heroic gentleman. He found that the blade of the knife had turned, and he contrived to straigthen it upon the floor. The ruffian's hands were already upon his throat—the pressure became suffocating—a few moments more and the contest must have ended; but an accidental movement of his body exposed the murderer's side—the old man struck with his remaining strength a deadly blow—the robber's grasp relaxed—and, with a yell of mortal agony, he fell dead across his exhausted opponent!

"Horror struck by the death shriek of their comrades, the banditti wanted courage to enter that gloomy chamber which had been already fatal to so many. They poured an irregular volley in, and leaping through the open window, ran off, leaving their lifeless companions behind.

"Lights and assistance came presently, the chamber was a pool of gore, and the old man, nearly in a state of insensibility, was covered with the blood, and encompassed by the breathless bodies of his intended murderers. He recovered, however, to enjoy for years his well won reputation, and to receive, from the Irish viceroy, the honor of knighthood, which never was conferred before upon a braver man."

Irish Litigation:—It is asserted, with what truth I cannot pretend to state, that the inhabitants of Inniskea are prone to litigation, and a curious legend of a law suit is told upon the main, illustrative of this their quarrelsome disposition. A century ago two persons were remarkable here for superior opulence, and had become the envy and wonder of their poorer neighbors. Their wealth consisted of a flock of sheep, when, unfortunately, some trifling dispute occurring between them, a dissolution of partnership was resolved upon. To divide the flock, one would suppose, was not difficult, and they proceeded to partition the property accordingly. They possessed one hundred and one sheep; fifty fell to each proprietor, but the odd one—how was it to be disposed of? Neither would part with his moiety to the other, and, after a long and angry negotiation, the sheep was left in common property between them. Although the season had not come round when sheep are usually shorn, one of the proprietors, requiring wool for a pair of stockings, proposed that the fleece should be taken off. This was resisted by his copartner, and the point was finally settled by shearing one side of the animal. Only a few days after, the sheep was found dead, in a deep ditch,—one party ascribed the accident to the cold feelings of the animal having urged him to seek shelter in the fatal trench; while the other contended that the wool remaining upon one side had caused the wether to lose its equilibrium, and that thus the melancholy catastrophe was occasioned. The parties went to law directly, and the expenses of the suit actually devoured the produce of the entire flock, and reduced both to a state of utter beggary. Their descendants are pointed out to this day as the poorest of the community, and litigants are frequently warned to avoid the fate of "Malley and Malone."

Novel Trip.—It is in contemplation to send a well appointed steamer, annually, near the close of summer, from Greenock or Glasgow, to Alexandria, Joppa, and Athens, which vessel shall remain about a fortnight or three weeks for the accommodation of such passengers as may offer, in Belfast, Liverpool, Dublin, Gravesend, Brest, Lisbon, Cadiz, Gibraltar, Malta, and other places, where she shall touch for a few hours upon her voyage out and home. Economy and convenience being thus united, learned and curious persons may visit various interesting parts of the three old continents in very little more than two months' time. They may pluck the orange, olive, grape, and fig, in full perfection; examine the rocky fortress of Gibraltar, the statue, pillar, pyramid, and mosque.—They may bathe in the Jordan and the Nile; kneel with the Greek and Catholic at the tomb of their Redeemer, or join the Hebrew patriots who reside in Sion, and keep the harvest feast beneath the branches of the willow and the palm. Supplies of coal should of course precede the steamer to some intervening ports.—Grennock Intel.

Natural Curiosity.—In the township of Clinton, district of Niagara, is, perhaps, one of the most curious caves in America. It is situated about two miles from the main road from Niagara to Hamilton, a little above the base of a mountain.

The scenery near the cave is singularly romantic, and aside from the cave, which would richly repay the admirer of nature's wonders for the pains of a visit.—From the circumstance of the cave containing ice always during summer, it is called Ice Spring.

Having twice visited the spring, during the greatest heat of summer, which is the only time the ice accumulates, I will endeavor to describe the place, although my pen will command but an imperfect sketch.

The entrance to the cave is under an immense rock apparently solid; its depth, or distance to the extremity is about 25 feet; the sides are of hugely solid rocks, extending into the mountain, some of which lie partly above the surface. The water which congeals into ice, oozes out of the rock that hangs over the cave; it hangs in icicles above, and may be found on the bottom frozen in cakes. A sudden transition from an atmosphere where the thermometer will rise °90 to a region where it will fall several degrees below zero, on entering the cave in summer, renders great caution necessary to visiters, who should never enter in a state of perspiration, nor remain too long. Near the cave are great numbers of rocks, apparently solid, and of the largest size I ever have seen, lying above the ground; they all have the appearance of having been thrown out by some great convulsion of nature. The wild aspect of these rocks, softened by a festoon of ivy and other beautiful vines, and the corresponding grandeur and rarity of all surrounding objects, renders the scene highly picturesque.

Frequent calls, through the public press, have been made upon the scientific, to account for the ice appearing only in the hottest weather, and dissolving as soon as the weather grows cool; but none, I believe, have yet risked a public explanation of the cause of so singular a phenomenon.—I may, therefore, hazard my opinion at some future time, though I am far from making scientific pretensions. I only hope that I may be the means of exciting some of our physiologists to the elucidation of a subject which, to thousands who never saw the cave, may seem incredible, and perhaps to all who have, an insolvable mystery. There are many places in America, where ice and snow remain during the summer; but, it is believed that, this spring is the only one that apparently acts directly contrary to the seasons of freezing and thawing, and which remains to be accounted for upon principles satisfactory to the inquiring mind.—Canada paper.

Under the appropriate head of "Old Times," the Newark (N. J.) Advertiser quotes an old advertisement from a New York paper, of the date of June 1st, 1775, which forms an amusing commentary upon the improved facilities of travel enjoyed in the present day. Mr. John Mercereau announces with an imposing caption to his advertisement, in capital letters, that "the Flying Machine" "still continues, and sets out every Monday and Thursday morning, from Powles Hook ferry, opposite New York, and from the sign of the Cross keys in Philadelphia, at the corner of Third and Chesnut streets, and meet at Princeton the same nights, exchange passengers, and return the next day to Powles Hook ferry, and Philadelphia, so as to perform the journey in two days."

The passengers are desired to cross the ferry to Powles Hook the evening before, as the stages start off early. The "flying machine" made the journey twice a week, in 48 hours, in 1775. In 1833 the slow line is about 9 hours on the road!

The writer of this remembers when a passage from New York to Albany was not often made in less than two or three days, and sometimes took a week. Now twelve hours is a long passage.—Balt. Amer.

The new Constitution of the state of Mississippi.—With respect to the operation of this constitution, the "Natchez Courier," says—"From present appearances, we should judge that it would not be long before our good citizens find themselves, not in the state of Mississippi, but in the state of glorious confusion. The laws are worthy of the constitution, and the constitution is worthy of the laws; they are alike creditable to the makers. To have been a member of the convention of either legislature, should be considered sufficient glory for one man."

Transportations.—We have oftentimes said, that a large part of the value of many important commodities is in the cost of transporting them to market; and, that reductions of such cost are as clear profits to consumers, in general, in the lessened price of commodities; and hence our long and steady support of that great arm of the AMERICAN SYSTEM called internal improvement—by which system, in all its parts, there is an immense annual creation of values which would not, otherwise, pass into the aggregate of the national wealth. There is an old saying that "hogs are the best sacks to carry corn to market in"—and millions of cords of wood, bushels of coal, and tons of ore, sand, &c. &c. which would have remained valueless without being manufactured, being pressed into reduced weights, bear the cost of transportation, and are cast into the general prosperity—every change in the character, or of the location of the commodity, increasing its value, and so promoting the welfare of the community. For an example, the coal mines of Pennsylvania are now throwing out a value of near two millions a year—what would be the amount of their product were the canals and roads rendered impassible, and to remain so? In parts of the same state, and of N. Jersey, Maryland, &c. &c. there are hundreds of thousands of acres of wood land, that would become, (as it was,) useless and without value, were the iron works, and other factories which require wood fuel, destroyed—and the works would not have been built, were not means at command by which the articles to be made at them might be sent to market. These are mere hints of important things, involving, perhaps, a general aggregate of not much less than 200 millions of dollars a year. It is very possible, we think, that the entire cost of the New York canals is annually added to the profits or the savings of the people of that state alone, without regard to the benefits which they confer on the people of other parts of our country.—Niles.

A letter to the editors of N. Y. Gazette, from an officer on board the frigate U. States, dated at Palermo, June 27, says—

"It is said Mr. Davezac has every hope of effecting a commercial treaty with Naples. His latest news from the United States was the 7th of March.

"From this place we proceed to morrow morning via the Straits of Messina, to Trieste and Venice, where, I understand, we shall stop but a short time.

"We meet much attention wherever we go. At Naples, Prince Casaro, (minister of foreign relations) and his family, visited our ship. Indeed, the ship is crowded with visiters from morning until evening, of all classes, from the Prince to the private soldier—never was such intense curiosity before—people travel fifty and sixty miles to visit her. At Spezzia, officers of the court of Modena visited us. Our ships have for years past, been limited in their cruises to too few ports to be known advatageously as a naval power—our ships should be every where seen, as they are so greatly admired. Free access is permitted to all classes, at every port, which produces a wonderfully happy effect, and our commodore deserves credit for the course he has adopted. The extreme cleanliness of our ships of war, excites great surprize and remark."

Newspaper Stamps, London.—Return (by order of the House of Commons,) of the number of Stamps, issued by the Stamp Office for all the London Newspapers, from the commencement of the year 1832, to the 31st of March, 1833, inclusive—26,588,050.—Stamps and Taxes, July 5. Charles Pressley.—Out of which number Mr. Clement used for the Morning Chronicle and his three weekly papers, two millions six hundred and fifty eight thousand five hundred and fifteen, being one tenth of the whole consumption of stamps had for all the London Press, consisting of 12 daily journals, four three days a week, one of twice, forty two stamped weekly newspapers, and the London Gazette.

Portugal.—The population of this kingdom and its dependencies, is thus stated—

Portugal and Algarves, the islands of Madeira and Porto Santo, Azores, and Cape de Verd,	3,352,180
In Africa,	1,100,000
In Asia,	586,900
Inhabitants,	5,033,080

The population of Lisbon was about 210,000 in 1820. At the date of the last report there had been 3,615 cases of cholera, resulting in 1,336 deaths, in the city.

A very interesting memoir has been read to the French Academy, by M. Benonton de Chateauneuf, on the mortality in the French army during a period of seven years, (1820 a 1825.) It appears from his calculations that the soldiers died in the proportion of 2 1-4 in the hundred, a most frightful mortality, and far exceeding that in civil life. The ordinary proportion of deaths in men of the age of 20 and thirty years, is one in the hundred in Scotland, Sweden, Denmark, and Switzerland. In France it is 1,22, in London 1,33, at Nice 1,15, in the Netherlands 1,34, in Paris 1,73, and in Vienna 1,93. It is in general not before the age 50 or 60 that the proportion begins to reach 2 1-25 in the hundred, being about the mortality amongst soldiers of the age of from 29 to 30 years. This is certainly a fact no less extraordinary than afflicting. M. Chateauneuf mentions another remarkable circumstance. It is that among the galley slaves at L'Orient amounting in number to 2,360, but thirty nine died from the year 1824 to 1827, that is to say only 1 2-3 in the hundred, being less than the mortality among the soldiers. The author of the memoir ascribes the great mortality in the army to home sickness, suicide and duels. One soldier in a thousand is killed every year in a duel. In the Northern and Eastern Departments of one hundred deaths in the army, six are caused by duels; in the middle 4 1-2 and, in the South nearly 5. Among the Gascons, however, the deaths by duels exceed 10 in the hundred.—N. Y. Cour.

Extracts from the Baltimore Prices Current and Review of the Market, for the week ending Friday evening, August 30.

AMERICAN COTTON GOODS.—We hear of no change in prices. The demand and sales are brisk at quotations.

COFFEE.—The late European advices relative to a further improvement in prices, have had the effect of establishing an advance in this market.—The sales of Rio which have come to our knowledge are about 1,000 to 1,200 bags good quality, at 13 cents per lb., being an advance of half a cent on the previous rate. At this price, those holders who are willing to sell are firm, while others decline to sell, and have withdrawn their parcels for higher rates. The price of St. Domingo is unsettled; 12 1-2 cents have been offered and refused for some parcels, and 12 3-4 for others; we know of no transactions. The stock of St. Domingo and also of La Guayra is quite light.

COTTON.—We note a sale this week of 100 bales North Alabama, at 16 cents, on speculation. Sales of lots of Uplands, for home use, at 16, 17, and 18 cents, according to quality. Manufacturers of course buy reluctantly at the present advanced rates.

Howard street FLOUR.—The market is quiet, the demand appearing to be confined to moderate parcels for city consumption and coastwise export. The sales of fresh superfine flour from stores have generally been made at $6 12 1-2 per bbl. and for small lots of favorite brands, at $6 25. The absence of rain since the commencement of the month has reduced the water courses to a very low stage, and the receipts are becoming quite limited. The fair wagon price of superfine, we think, may be set down at $6—the principal part of the receipts is taken at that rate, but occasional loads are settled for at 12 1-2 cents per bbl. both over and under it. There is no demand for Fine flour.

SUGARS.—The market is firm, and holders show no anxiety to sell. Moderate sales of New Orleans at $9 50 a $10. At Auction, on Tuesday, 60 hhds. Porto Rico were sold at $9 80 a $10 35, and 212 bbls. at $9 25 a $9 55.

WOOL.—We correct our rates in conformity with recent sales of this article. Some handsome lots American washed Fleece Wool have been sold at 80 cts. per lb. and upwards. Duty, 4 cts. per lb. for that which cost over 8 cts. per lb. and 40 per cent. ad val. That which cost not over 8 cents is free.

WAGON FREIGHTS.—Wagons are plenty and the price of Freights tending to a decline. We quote to Wheeling $2 a $2 25, and to Pittsburgh $1 75 a $2 per 100 lbs.

BRADDOCK'S FIELD

Edgeworth Young Ladies' Seminary.

ANOTHER year, the seventh of this Institution, has terminated, under circumstances pleasing in the retrospect, and replete with successful result.

In taking leave of those young ladies whose allotted time has expired, the relation of teacher and pupil of course ceases, but feelings of kindness, and desire for friendly intercourse, with mutual prosperity, will ever exist.

Health, the first of earthly blessings, has been so extraordinary, as to make Braddock's Field proverbial as a place for its enjoyment; and the additional buildings and arrangements have given satisfaction to all. We therefore announce, with gratitude, the prosperity of the Institution, in the present public manner.

On the 18th proximo, (September) it is intended to resume the engagements of the Seminary, but with a limited number.

It is intended, that, except as vacancies occur, no more pupils shall be received the next session, than those whose names remain on the list, or who are considered as engaged. This arrangement, it is presumed, will receive the approval of our friends.

The same course of studies will be pursued as particularized in former notices—and the terms continue unaltered, viz.

PROSPECT HILL

PITTSBURGH, Pa.

ON the 1st of July, Mr. DANIEL STONE intends opening, near the City of Pittsburgh, an Institution for the instruction of boys. Its plan is to combine, as far as possible, the peculiar advantages of a domestic and public education.—The pupils, with the principal and assistants, will constitute one family, and be at all times under careful supervision. The Discipline will be mild, but strict, such as a father, solicitous for the welfare of his children, would exercise over them. It is believed that an appeal to reason, and the sense of honor and duty, will generally secure obedience. Coercive measures will, therefore, be adopted only in extreme cases.

The Course of Study will embrace the English, Latin, Greek, and French Languages; Arithmetic, Algebra, and Geometry; Geography and History—Ancient and Modern; Rhetoric, Composition, and Elocution; Natural Philosophy and Chemistry; Penmanship, Orthography, and Reading. Frequent examinations will be held, open to the friends and relations of the youths.

The Mode of Instruction will be thorough and critical, and no subject will be relinquished until fully understood. That the scholar's mind may become vigorous, active, and self-confident—prepared for the stern conflicts of life, and a fearless discharge of its duties, he will be encouraged to reason and decide for himself.

Each student will be required to attend such church as his parent or guardian shall designate.

To preserve health and elasticity of spirits, to check indolence, and promote industry among the students, they will be daily exercised in athletic sports.

Pupils will be admitted between the ages of Six and Sixteen. None can be received for less than one term.

The uniform Dress will consist of a cap, blue roundabout, with metal buttons, and blue pantaloons. Every article of clothing should be marked with the owner's name in full.

The Terms are two hundred dollars a year, payable quarterly in advance. This includes Tuition, Board, Lodging, Washing, Mending, Light, and Fuel.

The Vacations, after the present year, will be three—the 1st, of two weeks, from the 3d Wednesday in April; the 2d, of four weeks, from the 2d Wednesday in August; and one week at Christmas.

The Matron's department will be under the care of Mrs. Reynolds, of this city.

Mechanics' Magazine, and Register of Improvements and Inventions. To the Mechanics of the United States---In this populous and enlightened country, almost every description of persons can obtain knowledge and amusement connected with their peculiar pursuits, through the medium of the Journal or Magazine, especially devoted to their interests. The Theologian, the Farmer, the Philosopher, the Sportsman, and even the Plough Boy, has each his Journal, where he can find a record of the passing events of the day, connected with his peculiar avocations and recreations. Hitherto, the Mechanics (who form a large and most important portion of the community) have had no Journal, to which they could turn, with the certainty of finding that information they desire, no periodical of which they could say: 'This is ours, and for us.' In the hope that the attempt to supply such a want at a price so reasonable as to be within the reach of all, will meet with your active support, the subscriber proposes to publish, on the first day of each month, a Mechanics' Magazine. It will contain a well digested selection of the most useful and interesting articles in the London Mechanics' Magazine, London Register of Arts and Sciences, Repertory of Inventions, Library of Useful Knowledge, Journal of the Franklin Institute, and other works, connected with the arts and manufactures, published in this country and in Europe, accompanied with numerous and well executed Engravings. Its pages will be open for the communications of all, and especially for those of the practical artisan, to whose interest it will be particularly devoted. The Mechanics' Magazine will contain, also, a due portion of the occurrences of the month, Scientific and Literary Reviews of Books, Anecdotes, Economical Receipts, Reports of the state of Mechanics' Institutions, and other Scientific Societies in this state and other countries. To be published monthly. Each succeeding number will contain 64 pages, handsomely printed, and stitched in a neat cover. Six numbers will form a volume, for which an index and title page will be supplied, and also a Portrait of some distinguished Mechanic, as a Frontispiece. Terms, $3 per annum, in advance.

DOCTOR ROBERT'S

☞ WELCH MEDICAMENTUM ☜

FOR the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Cholic, Fever and Ague, Dysentery, Headach, Loss of Appetite, Flatulence, Hypochondria, Hysterics, Dropsical Complaints, and Heartburn, It also prevents all Bilious disorders, and removes habitual Costiveness, Asthma, Strangury, Gravel, Rheumatism, Gout, and Impurities of the Blood.

A person who uses this Medicamentum will not require the use of the lancet, or any means of the healing art. It restores and revives the animal spirits, invigorates the system, removes nervous tremors, obtunds rheumatic and anthritic pains, and prevents their return. It cleanses the stomach of all morbid humors, which cause indigestion, acidities, headach, and lowness of spirits; cures all bilious disorders, and all cholics of the stomach and bowels, almost immediately; inspires cheerfulness; gives comfort to the dropsical; takes away palpitation of the heart; gives circulation to the blood; restores bloom to the sallow or sickly cheek, and plumpness to the meagre habit; purges without pain, and banishes all cause of fever of every kind. It acts on the stomach, that great reservoir of the human system, a diseased state of which causes all diseases. No alteration in the usual habits of life is required, but the abstaining from distilled ardent spirits.

CERTIFICATE,

From Rev. Derick Lansing, D. D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica.

Utica, Jan. 6, 1830.

To Dr. Hitchcock.—Dear Sir: I have always been one of the number of those who have placed little confidence in nostrums or specifics, and for this reason, although I saw your advertisement of the Welch Medicamentum, I could not bring my mind to consent to use it. My sufferings, from indigestion, during the past summer, were so severe, as materially to affect my comfort, and my capacity for usefulness. I have reason to thank you, sir, that, on hearing of the state of my health, you kindly sent me your Medicamentum. I have taken it faithfully, and with entire success. I have not been visited with one of those turns of distress, which before were weekly periodical, since I began to take your valuable medicine. Could I receive the same relief which I have hitherto experienced, on condition of taking it for life, I should cheerfully comply with such condition. Your's, very truly, D. C. LANSING.

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC ELIXER.

ONE of the most agreeable and efficacious Medicines ever discovered for the permanent cure of those chronic states of derangement of the stomach, constituting that miserable disease called Dyspepsia.

The basis of this Elixer is vegetables, and perfectly innocent in its operation; it destroys that sour state of the stomach, the instant it is taken, and stops the morbid secretion, by giving strength to the muscular fibre of that important organ, by which means the peristaltic motion of the intestines is increased, and the costiveness obviated; a new action is given to the system, which puts an end to a train of distressing nervous sensations.

Another form of the disease in which the Elixer is admirably calculated to relieve, is the decline of fever, where the stomach will not bear the ordinary strengthening medicines indicated in such cases, it has the surprising effect of giving vigor, and restoring the natural secretions of the body, without increasing the febrile state. Not the least danger is to be apprehended from exposure to cold, while under the use of this medicine, nor will it interrupt necessary employment of the patient a single hour.

☞ A number of cases of cures performed by the Anti-Dyspeptic Elixer in the vicinity of Pittsburgh can be given.

COMPOUND SYRUP OF LIVERWORT,

A SAFE and Valuable Medicine for Coughs, Spitting of Blood, Consumption, and Liver Complaints.

Most of the medicines made use of for the above diseases are of a stimulating nature, composed generally of Resins and Balsams, in alcoholic solutions, which, although sometimes giving temporary relief, in almost every instance where they are freely used, aggravate the disease, and reduce the strength of the patient.

This article possesses superior advantages over these preparations, its action being of a tonic, invigorating and strengthening nature, thus overcoming the disease by promoting expectoration, and gradually increasing the strength of the patient, and thus, without being attended with any unpleasant effects: it also agrees with the stomach, in all cases, and is a pleasant medicine to take.

PATENT PLANING MACHINE.—The right to use this valuable machine, invented and patented by William Woodworth, and known as Woodworth's Patent Planing Machine, may be obtained on application to the subscriber for the counties of Allegheny, Butler, Beaver, Washington, Green, Fayette, Somerset, Cambria, Indiana, Jefferson, Clearfield, M'Kean, Warren, Venango, Mercer, Crawford, and Erie, in the State of Pennsylvania. The whole of Indiana, except the counties of Floyd, Clark, Jefferson, Dearborn, and Switzerland. The whole of the state of Illinois, and the territory of Michigan. Rights to use the machine in that part of the United States, named above, will be sold by the single county or in larger districts. As it is presumed that no one will purchase without seeing the machine at work, a description of it is deemed unnecessary. Should any person, however, wish to purchase, and find it inconvenient to visit the places where it is in operation, a machine will be furnished, warranted to plane, tongue and groove, and bring to an exact width and thickness, a white pine board of 12 feet long, and of any width from 1 to 14 inches, in one minute and ten seconds, or an oak board of the same dimensions in 2 minutes and 10 seconds. Machines may be seen at work in the cities of New Orleans, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and others at the south and east, at Wheeling, Virginia, and at the saw mill of Messrs. Irwin & Herron, in this city.

Persons desiring to purchase will have the certificates of scientific and practical men who have seen it at work, in the different places in which it has been put up, forwarded to them. They give their opinion as to the great value of the invention, state the time they have seen boards dressed by this machine, and describe the quality of the work as compared with that performed by hand labor.

VALUABLE PROPERTY FOR SALE.

THE Subscriber offers for sale the farm on which he lives, in Washington county, on Pigeon creek, one mile south of Williamsport, on the Monongahela river, to which there is a perfectly level road. This farm contains near 400 acres, the greater part of which is first rate land. There is on the premises a Brick Dwelling House, a Merchant mill, in good repair, a new saw mill, a stone still house, 35 by 40 feet; a salt works is also in operation, and worked to advantage; about 150 acres of land cleared and under good fence. There is on the premises three small tenements for the accommodation of families. This tract is well timbered, and abounds with stone coal and springs of water, both of the best quality.
